WEATHER INDICATIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau,
Toledo, March 17, 1892.

The local forecast for to-day is cloudy and warmer, with rain at night.

For Friday, warmer, with rain.

Weather Conditions.

The high area still continues in the northwest, although with reduced pressure. It covers the entire northwest and extends as far south as Oklahoma, and as far east as Illinois. Cold and clear weather covers that entire section.

A storm center developed Wednesday in the Gulf. It is a shallow one, but it will have advanced sufficiently to create rain by Friday, if not before. The usual warm wave has preceded it, and will assist in raising the cool temperature in this vicinity for the next two days. The development of this storm drew the cold air of the northwest in the direction of the Gulf, thus diverting it from its eastward tendency. The lowest temperature reported was 8 below at St. Vincent; the highest was 60 degrees, along the Gulf coast. The zero line extends from the Canadian northwest to northern Texas, and from the Rocky mountains to Iowa.

Murderer Schneider Died To-day

For the Most Atrocious Crime Ever Committed.

The Servant Girl Slayer a Coward

When Face to Face With the Post of Death.

The Wretched Wife of the Condemned Man Reprieved—The Kaiserin of Austria Opposed to Killing Women.

Vienna, March 17.—Frank Schneider, the murderer of servant girls, was executed here to-day.

The crimes for which Schneider suffered death were unparalleled in their atrocity, and his trial created a great sensation. Schneider was 35 years of age. He was born at Anstetten, near Vienna, his father being a shoemaker of that place.

In 1882 he married Rosalie, his wife, and the partner in his crimes. She was a cook, and of doubtful character, but she had a dowry of 500 guilders, which was some attraction for Schneider.

After the money was spent Schneider lived on the proceeds of his wife's misconduct, and on blackmail levied on one of her former lovers. About a year ago the pair drifted into the career of outrage, robbery and murder which has made them famous.

The Schneiders lived in an obscure place in the suburbs of Vienna. They made a business of decoying and murdering servant girls in order to get possession of the money and clothing the unfortunates had with them. The victims were in every instance servant girls in search of employment, and it was by promising to find them situations that the prisoners succeeded in luring them to their fate.

The first crime is alleged to have taken place on the 26th of May, 1891, when a girl named Johanna Steiber was outraged by the male prisoner, under the cover of night, in a wood known as Hasped Walde, near Neu Lengbach, a fashionable suburb of Vienna.

The second crime was committed less than a week after the first. The girl's name in this case was Anna Djuris, and the outrage, which occurred in an inn near Neu Lengbach, was accomplished by violence of most atrocious character.

The third crime took place three days later in the same neighborhood, the precise locality being a wood at Christoffen, near Neu Lengbach. The victim in this instance, Rosalie Kleinrath, was robbed and murdered. The woman Schneider pawned this unfortunate girl's clothes and belongings a few days later.

On the second of July Schneider outraged, murdered and robbed a girl named Maria Hothvanger in another wood, the Dreifochreh Waldo, still in the same neighborhood—that is to say, in the vicinity of the suburb of Neu Lengbach.

The Schneider woman was cognizant of this murder and took part in the robbery.

Five days later another horrible crime of the same description was committed, in the Haspel Woldo, the scene of the first, a girl named Vicentia Zuffer being violated in the same brutal manner and finally killed. Her clothes and money, as in the other cases were appropriated by her murderers.

These extraordinary crimes created quite as much excitement in Vienna as the Jack the rippers murders did in London. The girls whom Schneider murdered were never seen after they went away with him and his wife.

The girl Johanna Steiber was the only one that escaped with her life, and she proved a most valuable witness on the trial which took place in the latter part of January. She is a short, pleasant looking woman of 28, wearing a red shawl drawn over her head. She told how Schneider, on May 26, met her in the Rennweg, a busy street in Vienna, and induced her to go with him to Neu Lengbach, by pretending that he would introduce her to an excellent situation in the house of a lady of title, and how, having lured her into a secluded part of the woods, he criminally assaulted her.

Relentless of her tears and entreaties, he did not allow her to escape from his abominable treatment until daylight appeared, and then it was only by fleeing for her life that she was delivered from further violence.

The trial was most dramatic in some of its features. Both of the prisoners accused each other, and ghastly exhibits, including the skull and hair of Rosalie Kleinrath, one of the murdered girls, and the torn and bloody clothing worn by her, were produced by the prosecution.

Schneider broke down when he saw these horrible exhibits and told the story of how the murders were committed. His victims were always conscious, he said, when he attacked them, and he was assisted by his wife, who held the hands of the struggling girls while he grasped them by the neck and choked their life out.

Mrs. Schneider interrupted him at this point, exclaiming: "I am your next victim. I never took part in the crimes."

An angry altercation between the prisoners ensued. Standing in the open space before the bench in the well of the court they mutually accused each other of the crimes laid to their charge.

Schneider was no match for the cool, deliberate questions addressed to him in rapid succession by his wife, and he looked as if he would like to strangle her there in open court had he not been restrained by the presence at his elbow of armed policemen.

The audience watched this incident with breathless interest and suppressed excitement.

They were both found guilty and condemned to death. The question then arose as to whether the kaiser, Francis Joseph, would consent to the execution. Both kaiser and kaiserin are opposed to capital punishment. The empress is said to have declared that no woman would be executed in Austria while she was kaiserin. Rosalie was reprieved a few days ago, leaving her husband to face the death penalty alone.

Schneider was gibbeted after the Austrian method. He was entirely broken down as he was led from the cell to the scaffold. As he saw the scaffold and the stake and spike from which he was to be hanged rising above it, his sallow face turned a greenish hue, and he had almost to be carried to the spot. The stake had fixed in the top of it a spike about six inches long. Schneider shrieked: "Have mercy on me, my God; I will tell all."

The priest who was in attendance upon him urged him to think of heaven. There were three steps to lift the doomed criminal up to the spike, the appearance of which suggested to the horror-stricken throng of on-lookers in the jail yard, that the punishment would be the fearful oriental penalty known as impalment.

This impression was so strong that a rumor got abroad in the streets and was telegraphed through Europe that Schneider was being impaled. He had a much easier death, however. He was lifted to the spike and the back of his neck held close to it. Then a cord was passed around his neck, fastening it tightly to the spike, and he was strangled to death.

To hasten his end, the executioner pressed his arms around the mouth and nostrils of the dying criminal, while one assistant held and pulled Schneider's arms, and another pulled his legs.

The wretch died in four minutes.

The body was left suspended to the stake.

PRAISE FROM THE POPE.

The Vatican Heard From on the Fair.

It is to be a Grand Institution and Should Have Hearty Support From All Countries.

Rome, March 17.—Following is the text of a letter written by the pope to Mr. Thomas Bryan, the special United States commissioner to Italy for the Chicago Columbian exposition:

"Greeting:—While we see on all sides the preparations that are eagerly being made for the celebration of the Columbian quatrocentenary feasts in memory of a man most illustrious and deserving of christianity and all cultured humanity, we hear with great pleasure that the United States have among other nations entered this competition of praise in such manner as befits both the vastness and richness of the country and the memory of the man so great as he to whom these honors are being shown. Nothing certainly could be more splendid than what is told us of the grand and magnificent exposition which the nation will hold at Chicago, bringing together every kind of product and work which fruitful nature bears and the artful industry of man creates. The success of this effort will surely be another proof of the great spirit and active energy of this people who undertake enormous and difficult tasks with such great and happy daring. We rejoice moreover in the nobility of the purpose which is equal in greatness to the undertaking itself. It is a testimony of honor and gratitude to that immortal man of whom we have spoken, who, desirous of finding a road by which the light and truth and all the adornments of civil culture might be carried to the most distant parts of the world, could neither be deterred by dangers nor wearied by labors, until having in a certain manner renewed the bonds between two parts of the human race so long separated he bestowed upon both such great benefits that he in justice must be said to have few equals or a superior. While, therefore, we bestow on the citizens of the great republic well merited praise, we express the fervent hope that their noble undertaking may, other nations uniting with them and lending their aid, have a most prosperous issue that will prove of great use in stimulating the ingenuity of man, in promotion of the development of nature, and in encouraging all the fine arts.

"Given at St. Peter's, Rome, in the year 1892, and the fifteenth year of our pontificate. LEO. XIII."

WANT TO LYNCH HIM.

Minnesota is Pining for Excitement.

Tobby Behr in Jail Under a Serious Charge and a Strong Guard.

St. James, Minn., March 17.—Late Tuesday night Miss Minnie Stapp, a school teacher and a delicate girl of good breeding, was assaulted in a quiet street, where she was found insensible a short time afterward.

Tobby Behr was arrested and, with four or five strangers, shown Miss Stapp, who promptly identified him. He was placed in jail under a strong guard.

Public feeling runs high, as the girl is in a dangerous condition, and should anything happen her, Behr will probably be lynched.

The sheriff is prepared to make a desperate resistance and will remove him to another county to-day for safe keeping.

WILL RETURN TO TOLEDO.

The Libbey Glass Employes Leave Friday.

One Hundred of the Old Men to Return to Toledo April 1—The Findlay Works Will Close in June.

Libbey & Co. have decided to close down their works at Findlay and bring back its old employes to Toledo, where operations in the melting and blowing departments will be re-started on a larger scale than ever.

On April 1 one hundred of the Findlay employes will return to Toledo, and the balance will follow in about a month.

Mr. Libbey's lease of the Findlay works expires in June, and it is understood that he will not resume operations there.

The men are mostly those who left here a year ago and they will be heartily welcomed back to Toledo, where the boys made many friends.

"Yes, we will be glad to get back," one of them said to a Bee yesterday, "not but that we like Findlay very well, but then it is not Toledo. We cannot vote this election, but 100 solid democratic votes will be in line for next fall."

CANADIAN PACIFIC STRIKE

Fifteen Hundred Miles of Railroad

Will Remain Idle for a Number of Days.

The Men Quit Work Rather Than Leave Their Labor Organizations—Systematic Action.

Winnipeg, Man., March 17.—The final answer of the Canadian Pacific railway company to its conductors and brakemen, in regard to a readjustment of wages, being unsatisfactory a general strike was ordered on the western division at midnight.

The division covers 1,500 miles from Fort William, at the head of Lake Superior, to Donald, in the Rocky mountains, passing through Manitoba, where there are a number of branch lines, and the Northwest territories.

In the order of conductors and brotherhood of trainmen six hundred are involved. All passenger trains will proceed to their destination and others to terminal stations so that no train will be left between terminal points.

The trainmen demand the reinstatement of over 100 men, discharged within the last few days and the concession on the part of the company of a compromise schedule presented Monday last.

The men say the strike was forced on them by the arbitrary course of officials, who asked the conductors and brakemen to sign a document not to go on a strike and to withdraw from their labor organizations.

On their refusal they were instantly dismissed. Garrettson, senior conductor, and Wilkinson, grand master, are here directing the affairs of the men.

Secretary Foster Could Square Himself

By Turning Out in the Procession and Denouncing English Reporters and Gross Prevaricators

New York, March 17.—The North German Lloyd steamer Spree, from Bremen via Southampton, with Secretary Foster on board, arrived off Fire island at 11 o'clock last night, reaching quarantine at 1:20. At 7 a. m. the secretary was transferred to the steamboat Laura Sterrin, which immediately left quarantine for the city.

The secretary had a rather rough voyage. On the 12th the sea was very rough. Mr. Foster was seated in a steamer chair on the upper deck, when the steamer lurched heavily, throwing the secretary to the deck, his head striking the port rail and blackening his right eye. His health has been improved by the trip.

TRADE WITH CANADA.

The Documents Before the Ottawa Parliament.

The Recent Negotiations in Washington Now Before Our Neighbor in an Official Way.

Ottawa, Ont., March 17.—Lord Stanley, the governor-general, to-day transmitted to parliament the documents relating to the recent negotiations at Washington between the Canadian delegates and Secretary Blaine respecting the extension of trade relations between Canada and the United States.

It will be seen, however, that no basis on the trade question was reached. It transpires that Secretary Blaine insisted that the meeting must be regarded as purely informal and private.

It is proposed that a commission of two experts shall be appointed—one by Great Britain and one by the United States—and report to their respective governments, either jointly or separately, as to restrictions and regulations which should be adopted on the following subjects:

The prevention of purse seining in territorial waters of the United States and Canada respectively, and also in waters outside of the territorial limits of either country. The prevention of other destructive modes of fishing in inland waters contiguous to the United States and Canada. The prevention of pollution and the obstruction of such contiguous waters to the detriment of navigation. Close seasons which should be enforced and observed in such contiguous waters by the inhabitants of both countries.

It is proposed that the United States vessels and wrecking appliances may render aid and assistances to men and other vessels in distress in waters of Canada contiguous to the United States, and that Canadian vessels may likewise aid any colleague. It is proposed that in the United States and Canada all duties shall be removed from fish of all kinds except fish preserved in oil; also from fish oil and other products of fish, products of the United States and Canada.

While the aforesaid articles are allowed to be brought into the United States without duty to British subjects, the privilege of entering ports, bays, and harbors of the coasts of Canada shall be accorded to the United States fishing vessels by annual licenses free of charge for outfitting for fishing; like rights to be given to fishing vessels of Canada on Atlantic coasts of the United States, while the aforesaid articles are allowed to be brought into Canada without duty by American citizens.

The following proposals were submitted subsequently by Secretary Blaine and agreed to by the Canadian ministers. It is agreed that joint survey be made of the territory adjacent to the boundary line of the United States and dominion; between the territory of Alaska and the province of British Columbia, and the northwest territory of Canada, with a view to the ascertainment of facts and data necessary to a permanent delineation of the said boundary line. Application is to be made without delay to the respective legislative bodies for appropriations necessary for the prosecution of the survey, and the commissions to be appointed by the two governments shall meet within two months after said appropriations shall have been made and shall proceed as soon as possible thereafter to the active discharge of their joint duties. The commissions shall complete the survey and submit the final report thereof within two years. The two governments shall pay the expenses of their respective commissions.

The next proposition is submitted by Secretary Blaine and agreed to by Canada. It is in effect that the previous proposal of Canada dealing with fish destruction and pollution of water shall be dealt with by a commission of two experts, one appointed by each country. Next comes the wrecking and salvage agreement, legislation upon which is now before the Canadian parliament, in order to assimilate the Canadian and United States wrecking laws. It is one principal of reciprocity.

Then following an agreement subscribed to by both ministers. It is agreed that the governments of the United States and of Dominion of Canada will, with as little delay as possible, appoint two commissioners to determine upon a method of more accurately marking the boundary line between the two countries and the waters of Passamoquoddy Bay in front of and adjacent to Eastport in the state of Maine and to place buoys or fix such boundary marks as they may determine to be necessary.

THIEF AT A FUNERAL.

He Wears Stolen Property and Is Taken In.

St. Marys, O., March 17.—(Special)—A bold sneak thief entered the house of Ephraim Baker, a farmer of Washington township, Shelby county, yesterday afternoon, and got away with a gold watch and chain and other valuables.

While attending the funeral of Jonathan Wegley, at Lockington, this morning Mr. Baker discovered a stranger in the crowd, and happened to catch a glance at the watch chain which he was wearing, and which he at once recognized as the one that was stolen.

Satisfied that he was the thief, a warrant was sworn out, he was arrested by Constable Adams and taken to Sidney, where he was lodged in jail.

The stolen goods were found on his person.

GOVERNOR M'KINLEY

Will Deliver the Memorial Day Oration In Toledo.

The Joint Committee Hold an Important Meeting and Make Elaborate Arrangements for the Day's Celebration.

The joint committee comprising representatives of the various G. A. R. posts of the city met in the federal building yesterday to further perfect arrangements for the proper celebration of Memorial day in Toledo. L. E. Clark presided, and Robert Brinkerhoff acted as secretary.

The secretary reported that the invitation to Gov. McKinley requesting him to deliver the oration here on Memorial day had been received and accepted.

Notice of acceptance was unofficial, but the committee had been notified that Maj. McKinley would be present and deliver the oration.

Committees on invitation, reception, finance, decorating graves, program, etc., were ordered appointed. The chairman will name the committees later.

It was decided to issue an appeal to the public with the view of making the day a general holiday. The projectors of games and the various amusements heretofore incident to the day will be asked to suspend such entertainment and take part in the celebration.

In the matter of decorations an effort will be made to have every public building, and as far as possible private residences decorated and adorned.

After the transaction of some routine business the committee adjourned for one week.

TRADE WITH MEXICO.

This Government is Slow in Making Terms.

Affairs Progressed Up to December, Since That Time They Have Gone to Sleep.

City of Mexico, March 17.—President Diaz, when asked yesterday to state Mexico's attitude toward reciprocity with the United States, spoke of the Grant-Romero treaty, negotiated some years ago, but which failed of ratification in congress, and said that that was the reason no reciprocity treaty was now in force between the two countries.

As to the proposed reciprocity treaty based on the McKinley law, he said the facts were as follows:

"Minister Ryan was instructed to confer with the Mexican government, which in turn appointed Jose I. Limantour to conduct negotiations. Negotiations continued about two months, when the two commissioners reached, or seemed to reach, an agreement.

"When the time for signing came, however, Mr. Ryan announced that he would first have to consult his government. That was about the end of December. Since then the Mexican government has heard nothing on the subject."

OUR AID IS NEEDED.

American Citizens on Russian Suffering.

It is Far Greater Than We Have Been Told and Warrants Generous Donations.

New York, March 17.—A special cablegram to this city from St. Petersburg contains the following appeal from the committee of American citizens who were sent to Russia to aid in alleviating the distress of the famine stricken people of that country:

"If the American people knew the extent of the suffering in the famine districts of Russia they would everywhere come to the rescue.

"Twenty million of people are affected and in danger of death from starvation.

"Typhus fever is raging in many provinces and horses and cattle are perishing of hunger.

"Does not this appeal to the hearts of those able to help?

"Russia is deeply grateful to the American people for what they have done. The distribution of supplies is under the direction of the American minister and an excellent committee. Nothing will be wasted. Every particle of food will be properly distributed. Help us.

"Rudolph Blankenburg, A. J. Drexel, jr., Alex. W. Biddle, committee of American citizens."

Part of the English Miners Return to the Pits.

The Durham Strikers Have Not Taken Action Yet and May Remain Out for Some Time.

London, March 17.—The miners held a protracted conference to-day in this city and decided to resume work next Monday.

This decision affects the miners' federation and allied bodies, but does not include the Durham miners, who have a powerful organization of their own, numbering about 50,000, and whose strike against a proposed reduction of wages will probably be continued.

DRAWING FOR THE CLUBS

Western League Meeting Now in Session.

Eight Strong Clubs Have Been Formed.

The New Organization Starts Out Under the Most Favorable Circumstances—Contracts Let.

Chicago, March 17.—Although an announcement had been made that a meeting of the Western base ball league would be postponed from to-day until Monday, all representatives of the various clubs put in an appearance last night and early this morning, and accordingly it was decided by President Williams that the original program would be carried out.

For several hours last night the players' committee, consisting of Krauthoff, of Kansas City; Schmelz, of Columbus, and Maguire, of Chicago, studied over the signed contracts of the 106 men anxious to play in the Western league that had been secured by President Williams.

The list included 27 fielders, eight shortstops, twelve third basemen, twelve second basemen, nine first basemen, twenty-eight pitchers, and sixteen catchers.

After a prolonged exchange of opinion ten names were lopped off. The association went into session at 11 o'clock this morning when the committee submitted a report representing eight evenly balanced teams, each team starting in with three pitchers, and a brace of catchers.

A free and candid interchange of opinions was asked for, the committee stating that it was possible that there might be some changes made in the make-up which would prove more satisfactory.

When all the teams have been arranged to everybody's satisfaction they will be placed in a hat and eight numbers in another hat. A team and a number will be drawn simultaneously by representatives of each of the clubs.

The committee on schedule has completed its report which is likely to be adopted unanimously.

It favors 140 games and a division of the season. The opening games will be played on April 16, and the first series will close June 30.

The second season will open July 2 and close September 29. The series will not be equally divided. Sixty-six games are scheduled in the first division and 74 games in the second.

Umpires will first call play in the southern tier of cities, St. Paul will open at Omaha Minneapolis in Kansas City, Milwaukee in Indianapolis and Toledo in Columbus.

The players that have been left out of the list will probably be retained on the roll in case of an emergency.

Delegates from Indianapolis which has a standing in the league are here and announce that more than enough money has been pledged to make that city an active member during the coming season.

The teams as submitted by the committee were not entirely satisfactory to some of the representatives of the clubs and several changes were made.

At 1 o'clock it was proposed to take a recess, but the majority decided to remain in continuous session until the make-up of the teams had been finally settled.

The Indianapolis club was represented by John T. Brush and St. Paul by M. Thompson.

Both delegates announced that the necessary funds had been secured to place both cities in good standing.

Minneapolis and St. Paul were admitted by formal vote. President Williams announced that the circuit was thus completed. It was decided after some debate that the selection of umpires should be left entirely to the secretary. The amount of the latter's salary was fixed but it was decided not to make it public.

Contracts Awarded.

Before Mr. Gunnells left for Chicago he let the contract for carpenter work at the new park to G. D. O'Neill for $2,847. The grading contract was awarded to Wm. Kline.

PUSH IS THE WORD

A Bee Visits the World's Fair Grounds

And Tells its Readers of the Progress.

The Success of the Present Age

Is What the Exposition Will Prove.

Miles of Beautiful Drives and Acres of Splendid and Massive Buildings to Greet the Visitors of a Globe.

Chicago, March 17.—(Special)—The work already done on the world's fair grounds is sufficient guarantee that all necessary preparations will be completed in due time for the opening of the greatest exposition of this or any age.

While daily bulletins have announced the progress made, a visitor to the fair grounds is not the less surprised to see the number of mammoth structures already nearing completion.

To many who have seen the beauty of Jackson park before it was given over to this use will be thatradordaoradoradd to this use, the first feeling will be that sacrilege has been committed.

To uproot the stately trees which were the patient growth of many years and the chief glory of this park, seems little less than desecration.

For this reason one rejoices to learn that Jackson park and the Middle Plaisance between that and Washington will be sufficient for fair purposes, and Washington park will remain untouched.

Then, too, it must be remembered that this is a transition period in the history of the park. The ugly ditches that have been dug for sewerage pipe will be covered with green verdure next year; the building materials of stone and wood that are scattered everywhere will have been before then transformed into the fine buildings that will make this "village of palaces" a thing of beauty; and all space not devoted to buildings and walks will again be made to blossom into gardens or to unroll nature's carpet of velvet sward.

Every tree will be left untouched where that is possible. When the exposition is over the commissioners will have to restore the park to the condition in which they found it.

This refers to that portion of the park which was inproved before. On the acres that had been set apart for this park and where nothing had been done, the commissioners have, at the cost of thousands of dollars, wrought permanent changes which are all good for the park.

Lagoons and little lakelets have been dug, and the dirt thrown up has been utilized in making terraces. Trees will be planted and gardens made, so that when the commissioners are done with this part of the grounds they will turn them over to the city of Chicago in as fine condition as the rest of the park. This is one of the gains to the city, and not a small one, from the world's fair.

Over six hundred acres of ground are in the hands of the fair commissioners, and it is decreed this space will be ample for all uses.

Ohio.

Entering the grounds at the northeast, almost the first space set apart is that for the Ohio building.

So far there is nothing to see of it except the stakes driven into the ground to mark off its boundaries. Indiana and Michigan are properly its neighbors.

From this entrance the art palace is the first building that strikes the eye. The walls, which have already been put up, are of solid brick, with no windows.

The four doors will be of iron, and the light will come through glass sky lights in iron frames. This will be the only absolutely fire-proof building on the grounds. The brick walls will be covered with "staff" carved and otherwise ornamented; roof, floors and galleries of iron. The building is Grecian-Ionic in style, 500 feet long by 320 wide intersected by naves and transept 100 feet wide by 70 feet high, with a dome 80 feet in diameter at the point of intersection. Upon this dome, 125 feet in air, a colossal statue will be placed. Galleries 40 feet wide form a promenade around the building. The outlook to the north will be upon a rolling lawn and the group of state buildings.

The south front faces the main lagoon, between which and the building will be terraces. Steps from the main portal of the building will lead down to the lagoon, where in the days of the fair the poetically disposed may take gondolas, and by as strenuous "make-believe" process as that of Dickens' "Marchioness," fancy they are in Venice. Groups of statues will surround the building, and there will be one-storied annexes on either side, 120 by 200 feet. Private collections of paintings are to be gathered and sacredly guarded, and collections of the various art schools will be assigned to rooms specially designed for them. The cost of the art palace proper will be between $500,000 and $600,000.

Naval Exhibit.

Another structure which is well along is the naval exhibit, a building which is the reproduction of a man-of-war. Its dimensions are those of an actual battleship, and in its battery and other details the idea is carefully worked out. The janitors of the building are to be dressed in the costumes of our naval sailors from 1775 to 1848, while during the exposition time a detail of officers, seamen, marines, etc., from the naval department will "man" the exhibit. To make this illusion perfect, this imitation battleship is built on piling on the lake front, surrounded by water, and apparently moored to the wharf. This will be one of the most striking exhibits of the fair, and something never before attempted. Indeed, the uses to which Lake Michigan and the artificial bodies of water are to be put will form one of the most original and "fetching" of the fair attractions.

Two Mile Drive.

There is a two-mile drive along the lake front in the grounds, and a pier to the south of the naval exhibit, which is near the northern entrance, is to be utilized for a casino. The pier, 80 feet wide, extends 1,000 feet into Lake Michigan. From it the grand avenue leads to the administration building, and lesser avenues radiate in every direction. The casino will be at the extremity of the pier, a composite structure of nine pavilions, with communication between the pavilions by bridges and by gondolas. Here, drinking in the lake breezes, the World's fair visitors can drink also of more satisfying liquids, and partake of as much more solid food as the state of their pocket books and the casino prices will permit. While satisfying the inner man, they can overlook a good bit of the general display, and see in the foreground, at the west end of the pier, the 13 columns which St. Gaudens has designed to represent the 13 original states.

United States Government Building.

Other buildings in process of construction are the United States government building, 350 by 420 feet, built of iron, brick and glass, to cost $400,000; the manufactures and liberal art building, the Jumbo building of the exposition, measuring 1,688 by 788 feet, and covering over thirty acres of ground; the dairy and forestry buildings; the fisheries building on an island in the lagoon; the horticultural building, 1,000 feet long, and with an extreme width of 286 feet, glass roofed; the administration building and the woman's building. This last will be the first building completed. It is in the northwestern part of the park, facing the great lagoon, with "Wooded" island, a bit of primeval forest surrounded by water, in the foreground.

These brief notes concerning the World's fair buildings which have already been begun perhaps convey some idea of the preparations that have been undertaken, and of the display that will be made here in 1893.

A Grand Success.

The Columbian Exposition of 1893 will be a show of which every citizen of the United States will be proud. The exhibit itself will lack nothing, so far as its needs can be supplied by American energy and resources. The world, or any way as much of it as we shall want to see, will come and visit us next year. The city of Chicago will house them all without trouble, feed them all without trouble, and fleece them as little as any other city would.

But can Chicago furnish her world's guests with proper transportation facilities? Not unless the city dads forget themselves, and turn over a new leaf. But this is another story, for which there is no room to-day. A. P. S.

GENTLY ROPED THEM IN.

A Land Shark Makes a Clever Haul

And Gets Away With a Nice Large Sum.

Would be Settlers Induced to Give Up Hard Cash for Information That Was of No Value.

Oneill, Neb., March 17.—A party of 120 men came here Tuesday night from Pierce, Neb., and Sioux City, Iowa, to file on 120 quarter sections of land, the titles to which were claimed by the leader of the party to be defective.

The affair was engineered by J. H. Stewart, traveling immigrant agent of the Pacific Short line, and known in eastern railroad circles.

Recently he sent out circulars to prominent land centers in Nebraska and Iowa, intimating that he had accidentally discovered that the title to all the valuable land in this vicinity was not in the many settlers occupying them, and that through him they could be secured as government land.

The secret of securing land, worth thousands of dollars an acre, was not to be divulged until the party reached Oneill. Then they were to pay Stewart sums ranging from $100 to $500 for the information, the amount to be determined by the value of the property. They were told that they would have to fight it out with the settlers then on the land.

When the first speculator stepped up to the clerk yesterday morning and presented his papers for what he supposed the choicest piece of farming land in the state he was coolly told that the description related to some sandhills lying 40 miles from Oneill, in the Ponco Indian reservation and could not be filed up.

This was the whole land under consideration. It is estimated that Stewart made from $5,000 to $10,000 out of selling the information.

CANADIAN RIGHTS.

Modus Vivendi Again Under Discussion.

Parliament Members Endeavoring to Avoid Expressions That Might Haunt Them in the Future.

Ottawa, Ont., March 17.—The act to renew the modus vivendi for the benefit of the United States fishermen has caused an animated discussion in the house of commons, Mr. Tupper moving its second reading.

Mr. Laurier asked the reason of the new departure in the present act. Hitherto the constitution of Canada had yearly renewed the modus vivendi and so avoided the interpretation put upon the agreement of 1818. He urged that the latter be held in abeyance and that the act be renewed year by year, rather than invest the governor general in council with such extensive powers.

Mr. Tupper pointed out that it had been found necessary year by year to take action in the matter of the modus vivendi before the house met, as fishermen from United States came and wanted to see what action was going to be taken. It had therefore been found necessary for the governor in council to authorize the issuing of interim licenses, and on this account the present action was deemed necessary.

Mr. Davis, of Prince Edward island, regarded the suggestion as undesirable legislation.

Mr. D. Mills, of Bothwell, said the administration had never admitted that the United States had any legal rights to be concessions granted under the modus vivendi. In his opinion it was time to learn what were their rights. While he would deal liberally with the neighboring republic in all commercial matters, he would not cede to it one sovereign right.

He asked the house to look at "the Americans, dealing with Canada in the Bering sea matter." There was a sea 4,000 miles in extent, but no question was raised till Russia set up some new pretensions, which the United States claimed to have purchased.

These extensions were being pushed and contrary to ancient usage. Canadian rights were being ignored. On the east coast there were a number of land-locked bays, but if these were more than six miles from shore to shore the United States demanded the right of fishing in their waters between the three-mile limits. The government was making great concessions, but would the United States make corresponding concessions as regarding Bering sea.

Sir John Thompson said there was no surrender of any sovereign right when Canada forced United States fishermen to take out licenses to fish in Canadian waters.

He depreciated the tone of the discussion and reminded the house that very important questions were now being discussed between the two countries with the view of settlement, and that it was desirable to avoid expressions which might tend to interfere with the negotiations. The bill was read a second time.

The end of woman's peculiar troubles and ailments comes with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures them. For all the functional derangements, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses that afflict womankind, it is a certain remedy. It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, soothing cordial and bracing nervine—purely vegetable, non-alcoholic, and perfectly harmless.

In the cure of periodical pains, prolapsus and other displacements, bearing-down sensations, and all "female complaints" and irregularities, "Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine that's guaranteed. If it doesn't give satisfaction in every case, you have your money back.

You only pay for the good you get.
Can you ask more?

The easiest way is the best. Regulate the liver, stomach, and bowels with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They cleanse and renovate the system—thoroughly and naturally.

CLARKSON ON THE ISSUES

He Rather Gives Harrison a Black Eye.

Republicans Must Hunt Up a Harmonizer.

The Chairman of the National Republican Committee Says a Good Word for the Governor of Ohio.

Ashville, N. C., March 17.—Hon. J. S. Clarkson, chairman of the republican national committee, came to Ashville four weeks ago to try to arrest a siege of inflammatory rheumatism, and has had a severe and painful attack of it.

Mrs. Clarkson and a portion of his family are with him. Yesterday a reporter called on Mr. Clarkson and asked him if the reports that he is a candidate for the presidency were true. He replied: "Of course there is no foundation whatever for such reports. My answer to all inquiries and kindly proffers of help on this subject has been constantly 'no.' Besides," added Mr. Clarkson, "I am not wanted for the place and I have sense enough to know it. Of course I am grateful to the good friends in the various states who have thought otherwise, but this is the truth."

"Who is your preference for the republican nomination?"

"I have not taken sides in the matter and as chairman of the national committee, I could not properly do so. I can only say that I hope the party will exercise abundant caution and deliberation in its choice, for it will give itself victory or defeat in making the nomination.

"We need a man who will heal all republican divisions everywhere, who will poll the full party vote and draw most strongly on the million first voters this year, and most heavily draw from the democrats in New York and the northern states already half way in favor of republicanism by being in favor of reciprocity."

"How can that man be found?"

"Find a man most sure to heal and unite and inspire the party in New York, Indiana, Wisconsin, and other doubtful states and the man who will draw enough republican farmers back from the alliance to make Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin surely republican, and you will have found the man.

"Do you think there will be several candidates balloted for?"

"It looks so. Alger Cullom and Blair are proclaimed candidates. Manderson is likely to be. There is a strong undertone or popular movement toward Uncle Jerry Rusk and one of gathering power for Gov. McKinley."

"Is it not too early for McKinley, so soon after the passage of his bill?"

"No, there is nothing in that. The republican party is responsible for the bill, and the author would only add honor to it. McKinley is one of half a dozen men given to the nation in a century. He is strong and splendid in everything that Americans most admire, and he will be president some day. Uncle Jerry Rusk, in whose life there has been much that touches with sympathy the millions of American homes that are acquainted with struggles and hardships, would make a strong and popular candidate. But," said Mr. Clarkson, "the party will do the right thing at Minneapolis. Blaine could be nominated and could be elected beyond a doubt if he would take it, and he is our only certain sure winner. President Harrison has added to the glory of the country and the party both. He has grown steadily in public estimation, and in the last year rapidly in party estimation. It is not unlikely and indeed probable that he will be chosen again. If the party is left free to make up its mind and no effort is made which will change the dignity of his position, or put him in the light of scrambling for a renomination, the final judgment at Minneapolis is most likely to be in his favor, but he is showing his own breadth and political wisdom in holding that the party should meantime review the field completely, discuss all available men frankly, and then decide with something like unanimity of party opinion and desire. Such a choice would mean the election of the candidate selected, Harrison or whoever it should be."

Mr. Clarkson's family hope to be able to start with him Saturday in a special car for Hot Springs.

DRUGGIST HOLMES

Will Move Out April 1 and the New Building Will Be Commenced.

Druggist Holmes will close up business on the corner of Summit and Jefferson street April 1, pending the erection of the new Coghlin block.

There is some difficulty in erecting the building as at first projected. The tea store between the drug store and Gradolph's belongs to the Boos estate and Mr. Coghlin has been unable to secure it. If he builds, and he probably will, he will be obliged to put up two separate buildings—one where the drug store is and one where Dixon's and Gradolph's stand.

This will make it bad, as the intervening little store will mar the effects of what otherwise will be a fine block. Mr. Coghlin has made every kind of offer for the Boos building but without success. He has offered to put up and exchange for the building a fine block on the Gradolph site.

AT ALBANY STREET CHURCH.

A Pleasing Musical and Literary Entertainment.

A very pleasant musical and literary entertainment was given last evening at the Albany Street church. The following participants did themselves proud: Piano solo, Mrs. R. E. Herman; chorus, Miss Ames' class; recitation, Miss Vevia Willet; selection, Miss Gertrude Skeldon; recitation, Miss Mabel Root; solo, Mr. Chas. Skeldon, Sr.; piano duet, Mrs. Herman and Miss M. SPARRING EXHIBITION.

Interesting Entertainment at the Maumee Athletic Club Rooms Last Night.

Another excellent boxing exhibition was given at Jack Kirwin's gymnasium on Water street, last evening, and there was a large attendance. The best and most scientific bout of the evening was between Jack Stultz and Fred Schrein, and in three rounds of sparring they showed considerable science.

A bout between Jack Goins and John Hingdon was rather vicious and would probably have resulted in a knock out if it had been continued.

Other bouts were between Frank Vaugan and "Black-Eyed Charley," colored; C. S. Smith, of Ogdensburg, and Arthur Bolan, of Toledo; and Pat O'Brien, North Baltimore, and Pat O'Brien, of Toledo.

POPE STILL MISSING.

Agents are Figuring How the Books Stand, which Work is Slow.

The whereabouts of Elbert A. Pope still remains a mystery.

About the only new development in the extraordinary case is that Mr. Pope was seen at Air Line Junction at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, and was in conversation with the train dispatcher of the Lake Shore railroad at that point. It is not positivetl known whether he boarded a train or not, but the theory is advanced that he left over the Lake Shore, going either to the west or east.

As to his accounts, nothing has yet been determined. Conjectures and estimates are freely indulged in, but they are not facts and go for their worth.

The investigation is being pushed with all posible haste, but it is an arduous task to review another man's business, without his presence and information. The result will be awaited with interest.

LAST NIGHT'S CONCERT.

Given by Miss Nellie Cook and Mrs. Bishop, a Decided Success.

A large and enthusiastic audience assembled at the Whitney & Currier music hall last evening to listen with rapt attention to a song and piano recital given by Mrs. Genevra Johnston-Bishop and Miss Nellie Cook. The excellent selections rendered by Miss Cook showed that artist's excellent conception of the compositions, and her execution was admirable. Mrs. Bishop, whose ability as a vocalist is recognized here and abroad, infatuated her listeners by the rendition of her part of the program. Her voice is marvelous. The audience fully appreciated the opportunity of hearing these artists in concert, and they were obliged to respond to several encores. Each of the ladies were recipients of beautiful floral offerings. Mrs. Bertha Titus, of Chicago, was Mrs. Bishop's able accompanist.

Evidences of Push in Various Parts of the City.

The Seventh and Eighth wards, in the vicinity of the avenues, are enjoying a most healthy boom at present.

The Glenwood syndicate has just broken ground for three fine residences on Glenwood avenue, just north of Virginia street, that will cost over $4,000 each when completed.

Robinwood and Maplewood avenues are also receiving attention.

William Tenny is building a $5,000 residence on Robinwood avenue, which, when completed, will be among the finest in that locality.

A gentleman named Smith, of Deshler, has just purchased a lot on the corner of Bancroft street and Robinwood avenue, on which site he will erect a dwelling of modern architecture that will cost over $7,000.

James H. Emery is preparing to build a fine residence on Glenwood avenue that will cost $4,000.

THE POLICE BOARD.

Short Session Held Last Night—Reports and Other Business Handled.

The police board held a very short session last evening. Health Officer Fisher submitted a copy of the bill amending the state law with regard to the power of boards of health, which was referred to the committee on health.

Garbage Collector O'Hara requested that 10,000 circulars be printed, giving information of the manner of collecting garbage according to his contract. He will collect garbage three times a week within a mile and a half of the postoffice, and wants it divided, rubbish in one barrel and garbage in another. Health Officer Fisher was instructed to look up the garbage contract and report at the next meeting.

Dr. Fisher reported a number of cases of diphtheria and quarantines made, particulars of which were printed in the Bee at the time.

An agent with a book, "Guide for Mayors, Marshals, Constables and Policemen," offered his work to the board at $1 per volume. He alleged that it outlined in brief the duties of officers under the law in a plain and comprehensive manner. The board bought ten of them. Now before a policeman makes an arrest he will sit down on the curb, take out his library and look up the law, so as to make no mistake.

Mr. Kruse was appointed a committee of one to sell, swap, or give away the old patrol wagon.

ADAM GRAUFF DEAD.

He Will Be Buried by Toledo Commandery, Knights Templar.

For some months Adam Grauff has been confined to his home on Broadway suffering from a complication of diseases. At times he would rally, only to become worse, and yesterday the end came. The deceased was an old and well known German citizen. For a long time he was employed with Mr. B. Meilink, and 14 years ago was elected chief engineer at the water works pumping station, which position he held at the time of his death.

Mr. Grauff was a member of Toledo lodge of Masons, and also of the Commandery, under whose auspices he will be buried to-morrow afternoon. Eminent Commander Henry W. Bigelow has issued the following notice to the members:

Sir Knight: Again we are admonished to prepare for that last great change which awaits us. The messenger, Death, has summoned away another beloved frater, Sir Knight J. Adam Grauff, who died at his home Wednesday, March 16, 1892.

The Sir Knights will assemble in their asylum, Friday, March 18, at 1:30 p. m., in full Templar uniform, for the purpose of paying the last tribute of respect to our deceased frater, and assisting in the last rites of the Knights Templar service.

Funeral services will be held in the asylum, Masonic Temple, at 2 o'clock p. m.

HENRY W. BIGELOW, Em. Com.
JAMES D. KNIGHTS, Recorder.

The deceased was also a member of the German Pioneer society, and was held in high esteem by all with whom he had an acquaintance.

ANOTHER WELL-KNOWN CITIZEN

Joins the Silent Majority After a Lingering Illness.

Another well-known resident of Toledo died last night in the person of Mr. George S. Stoeckley, who was the company of the firm of Leland, Smith & Co., the tobacco men. He was in his 49th year, and has been sick for over four months. Mr. Stoeckley became a member of the Leland-Smith company on its organization, and traveled prior to that time for W. S. Isherwood & Co.

The deceased was a good soldier during the war, enlisting in Company G, One Hundred and Twenty-third Ohio Volunteer Infantry, August 14, 1862. He was captured at the battle of Winchester June 15, 1863, wounded at Lynchburg June 18, 1864, and was mustered out with his regiment June 12, 1865. He was connected with Volunteer Post of the Grand Army, and was one of the most popular traveling men on the road, being a member of the Toledo Traveling Men's association and also the Commercial Travelers' association of Cleveland. He was also an acuve member of the Knights of Honor, under whose charge and that of the Traveling Men the funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon from the residence, corner of Oliver and Harrison streets.

LET US ALL GO.

Another Toledo man is missing, leaving no clue to his whereabouts. This time it is Sapher Noll, of 554 St. Louis street, and he has not been seen since Monday. Noll was a solicitor for the Metropolitan Installment House, 705 Jefferson street. Neither the firm nor his family can give any reasons for his disappearance.

He leaves a wife and three children in destitute circumstances, and they are much alarmed at his absence.

Noll is described as being 35 years of age, 5 feet 10 inches in height, weighing 160 pounds, with light sandy hair and mustache, and gray eyes.

WEATHER OBSERVATIONS

To Be Made by Lake Captains—Some Valuable Information Expected.

The blanks on which lake captains are expected to record meteorological and other observations have been issued by the weather bureau, and are in the hands of the observer at this station. As soon as navigation opens he will distribute them to vessel captains, who are requested to report observations.

The outfit consists of a large envelope, containing a circular letter to the captain, stating what is asked of him; an outlined map of the great lakes, divided off into numbered sections; and two smaller envelopes directed to the chief of the weather bureau at Washington, inside of which are blanks for the monthly statements which the captains are asked to fill out.

On these blanks are spaces for recording, twice on each day of the month, the barometer, the temperature of the air and water, the direction and velocity of the wind, the amount of clouds, and the direction from which they come, the character and direction of any lake swell, the state of the weather and such other information as may come into the mind of the captain.

Observations are to be made each day at 7 o'clock a. m. and 7 p. m., central standard time, and the square of the lake which shows the situation of the boat, or the harbor or port where the boat is lying must be recorded. At the end of the month the form is enclosed in the franked envelope and forwarded to the weather bureau. A great deal is expected from the information to be received in this way during the coming season.

THE HOTEL INDUSTRY

Decides to Suspend Operations For the Present.

Mr. Shoemaker May Decide to Erect a Business Block on the Site Now Occupied By the Hotel Building.

The lady managers of the Hotel Industry located on Superior street near Madison have about decided to suspend the running of the hotel unless the Young Womans' Christian association takes hold of the instution. This, it is understood, the young ladies say they are not in a position to do.

The managers of the hotel have been unable to get the lease renewed for the reason it is said, that Mr. M. Shoemaker, the owner, proposes erecting a business block on the site of the hotel and his residence adjourning.

Mr. Fred Shoemaker was asked by a Bee this morning if such was the intention of his father, who is at present out of the city.

"Nothing has as yet crystallized," he said, "though if it would pay we would like to erect a good business block on the site. The lady managers of the hotel were to meet this week and let me know their intentions, but so far I have not heard from them."

THE WOMAN IDENTIFIED.

The Unconscious Body Was Mrs. Carrie Thomas.

Clarksville, Tenn., March 17.—The identity of the young woman reported found lying prostrate on the doorstep of a fashionable flat in Chicago some days ago has been established.

The woman was Mrs. Carrie Thomas, widow of a prominent man of New Providence, a surburb of this city.

One of her brothers is banker John W. Faxton, of Chattanooga, whose signature was so clearly forged on the back of one of the raised drafts lately cashed nat a Cincinnati bank by the mysterious Thomas Hunt.

She is also a sister of Charles O. Faxton, once editor of the Louisville Courier Journal.

When Mrs. Thomas was stage struck she left here and went to Nashville and from that time until now her identity has been unknown.

Some of the Reasons

For the phenomenal success of the Boardman & Gray pianos:

1.—Because they—both Grands and Uprights—have the delightful tone musicians like.

2.—Because they have perfect action, without which no artist can perform the higher class of music.

3.—Because they are as thoroughly built as human skill can build.

4.—Because the material used in their construction is the best obtainable, thus securing the greatest durability.

5.—Because the men at the head of the mechanical and business departments understand their business thoroughly, being master workmen—practical and thorough; able to perform any labor required to construct any part of a piano with the highest skill.

The Whitney & Currier Co., 219 Summit street, are sole agents for Boardman & Gray pianos.

The Key

That unlocks the hitherto closed door to the realm of music is the wonderful Aeolian. All who enjoy fine music can hear it in their own home, and can render perfectly the works of the great masters and the simple melodies that all can appreciate.

Hear this marvelous instrument at The Whitney & Currier Co.'s, 219 Summit st.

AFTER THE STREET CARS

Watchmen Needed at Important Crossings.

Toledo Especially Interested in the Measure.

Australian Ballot Law Amendment to Pave the Way for the Spring Elections—General Columbus News.

Columbus, March 17.—(Special)—The house yesterday afternoon passed a bill requiring street railway companies whose cars are operated by motive power other than horses or mules to provide watchmen at dangerous street crossings.

The bill was introduced by Mr. Tischbein and originally intended to apply to Cincinnati only, but it was amended in the committee so as to include all municipalities in the state.

For a violation of its provisions the street car company owning the car or the employe operating it is made liable to a penalty of not to exceed $100 a day while such violation continues.

This will cause watchmen to be placed on Summit street at Cherry, Adams, Madison and Monroe, and probably at the corner of Adams and St. Clair streets.

Mr. Heinlein—Providing that county commissioners may pay all costs in appealed road cases where public utility justifies the improvement.

Mr. Martin—Providing that when a county road extends through or into another county meetings of commissioners of the road shall be held in the county through which most of it runs.

Mr. Blackman—Providing that mill dams may be removed by county commissioners upon petition when the damage sustained thereby by the owner of such dam is paid by such petitioners.

Mr. Griffin—Providing a penalty of $150 and further exemplary damage not in excess of $2,000, for over charges in switching rates by railroad companies, or a refusal to serve any citizen with reasonable switching facilities when properly notified.

"Illinois for Cleveland." Well, Illinois is considerable of a state just now.

Democratic caucuses on Saturday. Nominate good candidates and they will be elected.

Down in Mississippi Senator Hill cries for "unity." Better practice at home what he preaches abroad.

The gentlemen who visited the gas field on Wednesday are of opinion that pressure is better than pumps.

The tory government isn't having any fun at all; it can't even whip up a quorum in the house of commons of the Czar Reed kind.

Magnanimous Quay, he asks that the men who are locked up for libeling him be released from prison. A man who can libel Quay should be in a menagerie.

The Texas legislature indefinitely postponed the proposition to invite Senator Hill to visit Austin and orate, and went about its regular business. Those Texans are monstrous independent like.

Fruit trees in full blossom in the south covered with ice and sleet, and frozen slush bearing down the growing grain—this is a March with a vengeance, and the faster he marches on and away the better.

At the meeting of Seventh ward democrats Wednesday night a Hill boom was started by a thrillingly eloquent speech by Mr. James A. Dailey. The democrats of that ward, however, would rather support Grover Cleveland.

It begins to be apparent that Gen. Alger would better have based his claims for nominational attention upon his bar'l, his industrial record and his general popularity. He has not greatly improved his military standing by his recent manifesto, has announced that he will not tap his bar'l under any consideration, so at present outlook his chances are rather slim.

When ex-Secretary Bayard says there are republican free-silverites, an organ shrieks at him, "read President Harrison's message." 'Umph! there are hosts of republicans whom Mr. Harrison doesn't stand for in any way, shape or manner. Besides, what President Harrison says, much of it doesn't mean anything, as has been proven.

Cuba is disgusted already with the reciprocity treaty with the United States and threatens to bust up the whole thing. The falling off of revenue is felt and prices of certain necessities have gone up in price. Odd that Mr. McKinley and President Harrison cannot make tariff laws to suit the nations of the earth and their needs. Poor Mr. Blaine, he did the best he could for his party with what chance he had.

The Boston Herald, liberal puritan, if such a thing can be, has been a firm supporter of Mr. Cleveland. It thinks no less of him to-day than four years ago, but fears the Hill faction in New York will oppose his election now more vigorously than in 1888. Desiring the nomination of Cleveland, yet fearing the result of the nomination is the situation as the Herald sees it. This feeling is shared by many localities. There is no doubt as to the popularity of Grover Cleveland. As no other man of present politics did he make the democratic principle of low tariff the issue that carried with it conviction and success. Of all men he is the man to honor, yet the fear of the factional fight in New York makes many friends of Mr. Cleveland hesitate. They want a winner this year. They hope Cleveland will be the winner. The situation is likely to be much more clear before June. The Lord is with Democracy and will provide.

Dr. Parkhurst put it straight to wicked Gotham from his pulpit Sunday. In his slumming expedition of the Sunday night before, from twelve, midnight, till three in the morning he had found 284 saloons in full blast and 2,438 persons enjoying life therein. Some of the worldly wise who denounce ministers of the gospel for keeping themselves within their four well-warmed walls instead of going out into the by-ways and hedges, will now turn about and denounce preachers who meddle with—politics, (which they must do if they meddle with municipal governments.) Even the preachers can't please everybody.

The New York reporter, Hamilton, who investigated the North Brother Island hospitals and reported thereon of the lack of care and criminal negligence regarding the patients, died yesterday of typhus fever, contracted in the exercise of this duty. He sacrificed his life to help his unknown brother. What greater can be said of any hero.

Yale college is, from henceforth, open to men and women alike, except the undergraduate courses. St. Andrews, the Scottish university, has just done likewise. Woman's cause for the higher education seems to move on just the same, whether or not they are allowed to sit as delegates in the general conferences of Christian churches.

Utah has more natural gas wells—a new one was struck yesterday in the heart of Ogden. Some Buckeye hearts will yearn to give Utah some advice, now, in the start, when it might do good.

THE TEXAS SENATORSHIP.

A Red-Hot Battle is Being Fought for the Honor.

Austin, Tex., March 17.—The race for United States senator is waxing hot, Mills, Culbertson and Chilton running in the order named, but the battle will be a close one.

The final issue will be next Tuesday, and in the meantime primaries and caucuses are held everywhere.

Mills' friends claim a walk-over on the first ballot, but the way issues stand the race is no ones till the end. It is the hottest contest ever known in Texas.

Cleveland the Man.

There is hardly a northern state east of the Mississippi river in which it is not admitted by impartial observers that Cleveland would carry more democratic votes for the presidency than any other democratic candidate, and the same may be said of several states in other sections. —Boston Herald.

Reckless American Ladies.

Can it be that American ladies abroad are more reckless of their good names than when at home? The evidence to this effect is accumulating with considerable rapidity.—Troy Press.

MENTIONED ON THE STREETS.

That the new Robison cars are beauties, and no mistake.

That the coming O. Y. C. reception will be away up in G.

That Toledo is still represented in the C., H. & D. directory.

That Reynold Voit has determined not to seek election to the gas board.

That Schmitt and Kohn will prove themselves A1 sprinters in the Second.

That the fur will fly when Mayor Emmick and Charley Griffin come together.

That F. H. Wolfman has a clear field for the Ninth ward aldermanic nomination.

That Grand Marshal Sugrue looked every inch a soldier on his prancing steed to-day.

That the gypsy and organ-grinder has put in an appearance; now let summer advance.

That democrats should make a note of the polling booths and be on hand promptly on Saturday.

That George Jackson, of the Seventh ward, is talked of for gas trustee on the democratic ticket.

That the chances are the Star course people will bring Leland Powers to Toledo before the season closes.

That Charles Zirwas has no opposition as a candidate for members of the board of education from the Fourth ward.

That since Mr. Opitz has declined to make the race, why should not Morris Loenshal be vindicated by the republicans?

That the democrats of the Eighth ward will have difficulty in finding a nominee who will be as acceptable to the residents as was Mr. Opitz.

That ex-Senator Geyser is still hanging by the gills in his race for an asylum trusteeship. It is probably another case of the commission "that he looked for never came."

That if Peter Lynch is successful in pulling Toney Bay into a re-election as councilman from the Ninth ward, he will have no reason to complain, nor will the party. "Pete" has a way of getting there.

That in the event of the renomination of Street Commissioner Bower, he will have several very important questions to answer as to his management of the office, upon his reply to which will depend many votes.

PHILANTHROPIC MACOMBER AND THE LABORER.

Editor Bee: I was overjoyed to see in your report of the meeting to enlighten Washington Gladden et al. in the Congregational church, that Alderman Macomber appeared before them in the interests of the laborer. His credentials did not say what laborer he represented, but surely that did not matter. It is comforting to know that Albert has deduced some facts in the interest of the laborer that if I were a laborer (but unfortunately I am not) I would present him with a lot.

I have some very choice ones that I bought in East Toledo at $800 per acre, which I am offering to laborers at $400 each (eight to the acre), and you can readily see my interest in him is most intense. I would have been present at that meeting myself as a representative of labor, but I was afraid some one might mention my lots in a way that would destroy my influence with Dr. Gladden. It is proper that jawsmiths as well as blacksmiths should be heard from by Dr. Gladden, and I wish to thus publicly thank Albert for his sacrifice. So long as he remains active the laborer may be sure his interest is being cared for, and collected regularly every Saturday evening.

Dr. Gladden may call his labors done; he has heard Alderman Macomber, and the rough ways are made smooth.

PROFESSOR MACKINDER.

Prof. J. A. Mackinder, M. A., of the University of Oxford, England, one of the brilliant young leaders of the University Extension movement, less than a week in this country, made his first appearance before an American audience in Philadelphia Monday evening last. His lecture was entitled "Revolutions in Commerce," and was accompanied by stereopticon views of the localities described. Mr. Mackinder won the prize offered by Baroness Burdett-Coutts for the encouragement of geographical studies. He is president of the famous Oxford debating society, a place which has been proudly filled by such men as Gladstone, Lord Coleridge and Cardinal Manning. Mr. Mackinder is accompanied by his wife. He has three more Monday evenings in Philadelphia, and numerous social engagements. These items of information possess local interest, as Toledo is one of the fortunate cities on the Professor's western tour. The enterprise of reporters in getting his lecture, his picture and himself so correctly and speedily before the public was a matter for surprise and considerable pleasant curiosity on the part of the distinguished guest, accustomed as he is to the slow movements of English newspapers.

Squire and the Governor.

Gov. McKinley will go to the Minneapolis convention as the guest of the Ohio Republican league, of which Major General Squire, of Toledo, is first boss, under Foraker. President Harrison should get his machine in good working order at once. This McKinley movement means a stampede in convention to the Prince of Protection, as was attempted in Chicago four years ago. The times have changed since '88. McKinley will hardly resist a stampede in Minneapolis. Rather will he encourage it. General Squire will help it along with his turtle soup brigade.—Zanesville Signal.

Just Before the Day Break.

The republican newspapers that have been wrought to an unhealthy pitch by democratic "blunders" will soon be quite as much worried because the effect of the blunders has disappeared. The little congressional flurry will soon be over, the sunshine of coming victory will drive away the clouds and a united democratic front will meet the combined forces of monopoly and oppression.—Harrisburg Patriot.

Foster's Toadyism.

The English tories who were pleased to have Secretary Foster apply the offensive epithet "flannel-mouthed" to Irishmen are of less consequence to Mr. Foster's chief and his ambitions than are the thousands of Irish-born or Irish-descended American citizens who were insulted by the contemptuous speech.—N. Y. World.

PUMPS VS. PRESSURE.

Results of Yesterday's Investigation at North Baltimore.

The Committee Was Not In It, Figuratively,

But the Newspaper Men Secured Some Interesting Facts That the Committee Should Consider Before Making Its Final Report.

Owing undoubtedly to the surfeit of frozen facts and solid information obtained at the public meeting Tuesday evening, not a member of the mayor's gas investigating committee was forthcoming yesterday morning when the T., C. & C. train left the East Side depot. Late Tuesday night Mayor Emmick said he would be on hand, but he failed to put in an appearance.

Notwithstanding the fact that Hamlet was lacking, the play went on just the same and was carried through successfully. Gas Trustee Voit, Manager Heston, Superintendent O'Heron, and Bee and Commercial reporters made up the delegation, and the committee will have to take the word of this contingent of gas experts for the fruits of yesterday's investigation the committee missed. The wells and territory in the neighborhood of North Baltimore are the best yet visited.

Reaching Welker about 10 o'clock there was quite a wait for the B. & O. train which took the party to the point of destination, North Baltimore. The object of the trip was to measure and inspect a number of wells owned by Mr. Thomas Keily of Findlay. He owns about 280 acres on which are five wells. Reference has been made to them in these articles heretofore. He has claimed that the pressure was the best in the entire field, and yesterday's investigation seems to justify this claim.

Some time ago he made a proposition to the gas trustees that he would supply Toledo with wells having an aggregate output of 15,000,000 at the rate of $1,000 per million feet, together with the gas right on 20 acres with each well.

Mr. Kelly and Mr. J. W. Weaver, one of North Baltomore's gas trustees, were in waiting with carriages, and accompanied the delegation to the wells, which are located on an average of about two miles from North Baltimore, and three miles from the city's main line.

The roads were very rough, but passably passable. The first well inspected was what is known as Weiger No. 2. It is located on the southeast corner of the tract, and proved a very good gasser. It was drilled in last January, and the rock pressure is the same now as then—200 pounds. It was allowed to blow off five minutes, and then measured 2,253,000 feet. In 15 minutes it showed 1,895,000 feet, with a minute pressure of 130 pounds.

Weiger No. 1, on the northwest corner, on being opened showed a rock pressure of 225 pounds. After flowing five minutes it showed a capacity of 1,661,000 feet, and in ten minutes 1,377,000, with a minute pressure of 130 pounds.

It may be said here that much more care was taken in measuring the wells yesterday than at any time during the investigation. The wells were allowed to remain open from 10 to 15 minutes in every case, and measured five minutes apart.

No. 1 Davis was the next struck. It was drilled in two years ago, and then showed a rock pressure of 270 pounds. It has been in more or less use ever since, and still it showed when measured yesterday a rock pressure of 230 pounds. After flowing five minutes it showed a capacity of 2,450,000 feet, and at the end of ten minutes showed no perceptible diminution in the output. Like the previous three examined, it was perfectly free from indication of oil or salt water.

Davis No. 3 showed a rock pressure of 225 upon being opened. After five minutes' flowing it measured 1,572,000 feet, and in ten minutes 1,485,000 feet, with a minute pressure of 150 pounds.

Davis No. 2, the last and one of the best, shows a rock pressure of 227 pounds, and an output of 1,480,000 feet, and at ten minutes' flowing 1,266,000, with a minute pressure of 140 pounds.

This is a great record for wells in that section.

Recapitulation.

The capacity shown by each well after flowing 10 minutes gives very nearly the average output. In the following table is given the pounds as given by the gauge at the end of 10 minutes and also the capacity and pressure.

Well.	Pounds.	Capacity.
Weiger No. 1	325	1,377,000
Weiger No. 2	200	1,895,000
Davis No. 1	230	2,450,000
Davis No. 2	227	1,266,000
Davis No. 3	225	1,480,000
Total		8,468,000

The 10 minutes gauge is given in the above table for the reason that this is very close to the average output and the measurement by which the trustees shall purchase the wells if they purchase at all.

The wells as they stand would cost the city about $8,000, with the gas right in 20 acres with each line.

Manager Heston said to a Bee that a 6-inch line would be sufficient to carry the gas to the main line—three miles away. A six-inch line would cost about $2,500 a mile. The city can therefore have the wells turned into its main line for a cost of about $18,000.

The question then arises, is it cheaper or wiser to do this than to buy pumps? Mr. Kelly guarantees to supply the city with 15,000,000 feet of gas with a pressure of 200 pounds or over. This, with the line, would entail a cost of about $25,000, or the price of one pump. This is an interesting pointer for the committee.

It is admitted on all sides that, with a pressure of 200 pounds or even 130 pounds, pumps will not be needed.

North Baltimore, by the way, has made it profitable to trade off the oil rights in lands owned by her for gas rights in lands owned by oil operators. Toledo has not had the good luck to hold on to her oil right, but she has some, and it might not be a bad idea for the trustees to follow the burg's lead and do some trading also.

After the inspection of the wells there was a hustle for home. There was time to snatch a hasty dinner at Baltimore before the C., H. & D. train was due. At Tontogany a half-hour's wait enabled the delegation to part with some of the real estate which had clung to shoes and clothes, and Toledo was next in order.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Give Us the Facts.

To the Editor: The Rev. Pope in his remarks before the congregationalists labor committee made a statement as follows: "I know many laborers here in Toledo who are good Christian men but who do not attend church because their business requires their services seven days each week."

I would ask the reverend gentleman to name them. I did not suppose people were being worked in this way. Let us have the facts. B. A. STEVENS.

Nor Write a Book, Says Senator Sherman in Reply to a Query.

Some time ago there appeared in the press dispatches over the country the startling announcement that Senator Sherman was about to resign his seat in the senate and retire from public life. As a reason for this extraordinary step it was given out that the senator desired to compile and publish the correspondence of his brother, Gen. Sherman, during and since the war; that the task would require at least a year to prepare the matter for publication, and Senator Sherman was anxious to get to work on it.

Mr. F. W. Rickenbaugh's attention was called to the announcement by a client who desired to publish the compilation, and solicited Mr. Rickenbaugh's good offices in the matter. Accordingly a letter inclosing an extract from the current report was forwarded to Mr. Sherman's address at Washington.

This morning Mr. Rickenbaugh received the following in reply to his communication:

Washington, March 13.

Mr. F. W. Rickenbaugh:

My Dear Sir: The enclosed slip which you sent me was only a part of an interview which was manufactured by some imaginative reporter and has already been denied. I have no thought of writing General Sherman's memoirs. This he did himself, nor have I in contemplation the publication of any book, and therefore cannot give the information you ask for.

Yours truly,
JOHN SHERMAN.

GETTING INTO SHAPE.

First Ward Democrats Adopt a Constitution,

Under which Their Club Will Be Run in the Future—Fine Headquarters Secured—The Meeting Last Night.

The First Ward Democratic club met last evening at their headquarters in the old Sargeant mission building, with a good attendance. President John H. Puck occupied the chair.

This club is fast getting into good shape. During the winter the building which is now used was secured, and is being put in condition for habitation. The building will be painted and otherwise beautified, and it is intended that after the improvements have been completed to inaugurate debates, etc., which will have a tendency to create an interest that cannot fail to be felt in the work of the campaign.

Some time ago a committee on constitution, consisting of Messrs. C. T. Johnson, P. H. Dowling and H. Hood, was appointed, and last evening report was made. The document below was read section by section, amended and approved, and hereafter the club will do business in regular order.

Preamble.

Whereas, We the democrats of the First ward of the city of Toledo, Ohio, believe that public interest and welfare is best guarded by vigilance and political activity on the part of the citizens, and that an intelligent and effective organization of party forces is the means most suitably adapted to conceive and execute such measures as are proper to influence public men and public opinion.

We, therefore, adopt this constitution as a means of uniting democrats, of promoting wholesome interest in public affairs, of supporting before the people representative democrats as the choice for public offices, and of building up the interest and spreading the principles of patriotic democracy.

A meeting for the election of officers will be held in the future.

After this work was concluded, the primaries and convention was discussed. A recess was taken to endeavor to agree on a good ward ticket, and after some coaxing Mr. Fred Schultz and Mr. Rudolph P. Mathias were prevailed upon to allow their names to stand for the aldermanic and council boards. These gentlemen were recommended to the democratic voters at Saturday's primary. Mr. Schultz is connected with the Western Manufacturing company, has long been a member of the First ward, and is worthy of cordial support. Mr. Mathias is a painter by profession, an old Toledo boy and taxpayer, and practical in all things. The nominations are excellent. The old assessor, Mr. J. W. Russell, was also indorsed by acclamation, his past valuable services entitling him to this compliment.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

THE CASTALIA CLUB

Holds Its Annual Meeting and Elects Officers.

Important Improvements Decided Upon—Toledo Representatives Make a Haul of Fine Trout.

The Castalia Fishing club held its annual meeting and election of officers and decided upon several important improvements in its club house.

The following directors and officers were elected: Directors, J. C. Zollinger, Sandusky; Geo. J. Johnson, Cleveland; John A. Waite, Toledo, C. T. Hasbrouck Cleveland; J. S. Sweeney, Detroit; F. N. Beebe, Columbus; A. C. Moss, Sandusky. Officers, J. C. Zollinger, president; J. S. Sweeney, vice-president; A. C. Moss, secretary and treasurer.

J. W. Oswald, Clarence Brown, Geo. W. Ellis, Geo. E. Pomeroy and Jos. M. Spencer were among those representing Toledo, and each returned home last evening with fine strings of handsome trout. The fishing is said to be immense just now. During the past week 300,000 young trout were placed in the stream, and this will tend to enhance the value of the famous fishing resort very much.

It was decided by the board of directors to build an addition to the present club house. The accommodations for members are at present limited, but the addition will give all the room necessary.

Castalia as a fishing resort is second to none in the country, and the club is devising means and ways of making it still more popular.

HE COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Springfield, O., March 17.—Samuel McAllister, a wealthy stock dealer and farmer of Milford Center, O., committed suicide yesterday by throwing himself before a Big Four passenger train, near the Arcade hotel. His liver, lungs, and entrails were strewn along the track for 100 feet. He is the father-in-law of Representative Pudney, of Cleveland, who arrived here this afternoon.

Brought a multitude of ills upon humanity, so saith the ancients; but a bottle of SOZODONT is a well-spring of joy in the family. It refreshes the invalid by cleansing his mouth and fits the belle for the parlor.

You would not suspect it from the taste; there is cod-liver oil in Scott's Emulsion.

It looks like cream; it is like cream. Cream is bits of butter covered with something else—you do not taste the butter. Scott's Emulsion is drops of cod-liver oil covered with glycerine.

Cream is an easier food than butter, because it is in bits. Scott's Emulsion is cod-liver oil made easy; the drops are invisibly fine; they do not resist digestion.

EVERY WORD TRUE.

So Says the Writer of that Famous Letter.

He Reiterates His Statements, Produces Additional Proof and Clearly Defines His Case.

(N. Y. Sun.)

It would be difficult to measure the interest and comment, not to say excitement which the published letter of Dr. R. A. Gunn, which appeared in the papers yesterday, has occasioned. The prominence of the doctor and the unusual nature of the letter have both tended to add interest to the subject and make it really the talk of the town.

I called upon Dr. Gunn at his residence No. 124 West Twenty-fourth street, yesterday afternoon. I found the reception room crowded, and it was only after an hour's waiting that I succeeded in obtaining an interview.

Dr. Gunn is a distinguished looking man, and impressed me at once by his manly bearing and air of sincerity. I took the seat he courteously offered me, and said:

"Are you aware, doctor, of the commotion your letter has caused?"

Dr. Gunn smiled and replied: "Things out of the ordinary usually cause comment. It is not a common thing for physicians to indorse and cordially recommend medicines other than those in the Materia Medica. History is full of instances of scientists who have indorsed discoveries they believe to be valuable, and have been denounced for so doing, and yet these same discoveries are blessing the world to-day. I hope I have the manhood and courage to be true to my convictions, and that is why I so openly and unhesitatingly indorse Warner's Safe Cure as being the greatest of modern discoveries for the cure of diseases which have baffled the highest skill of the medical profession."

I was impressed with the earnestness of the doctor, and saw that he meant every word that he said.

"How long have you known of this remedy, doctor?" I asked.

"Nearly ten years," he replied. "My attention was originally called to the Safe Cure by a serious case of Bright's disease, which was considered hopeless, and yet, much to my surprise, under its use the patient recovered. I have tried it in other cases since then constantly, and my original faith in its power has been confirmed. I have seen patients recover from inflammation of the bladder gravel and Bright's disease when all other treatment had failed, and I have found it especially efficient in all female troubles."

"Can you specify any particular cases, doctor?" I asked.

"That is a delicate thing to do," the doctor replied; "but, as I always keep a written record of my cases, I can accommodate you."

Thereupon the doctor opened his desk and produced his record book. Turning over the leaves he said:

"Here is a case of a gentleman who was a great sufferer from inflammation of the bladder of long standing. He had consulted a number of physicians without benefit. When first consulted I myself tried the usual methods of treatment, but without success, and I finally advised him to try Warner's Safe Cure. He felt better from the start, and in a few weeks was entirely cured."

The doctor turned a few pages further, and then said:

"Here is another case. It is that of a gentleman who had frequent attacks of renal calculi, which, as you know, is gravel forming in the kidneys. He had never been able to prevent these formations, but after an unusually severe attack I recommended him to try the Safe Cure, which he did, and, although it is three years since he took the remedy, he has never had an attack since."

The doctor continued to turn the leaves of his book, and suddenly exclaimed:

"Here is a most remarkable case. It is that of a lady who had suffered for some time from Bright's disease. She became enciente, and about the fourth month suddenly became blind, had convulsions and finally fell into a state of coma, caused by uremic or kidney poison. Several physicians who saw her said she could not live, and in this view I fully concurred. As she could still swallow I said, as a last resort, that they might try Warner's Safe Cure. They did so, and to the surprise of everyone she recovered. She has since given birth to a living child, and is perfectly well."

"Those are certainly most wonderful cases, doctor," I said, "and while I do not for a moment question their authenticity I should consider it a great favor if you would give me their names. I think the importance of the subject would justify it."

"In the interest of other sufferers I think you are correct," Dr. Gunn finally observed, after a moment's thought. "Both the lady and her husband are so rejoiced, so grateful, over her recovery, that I know she is only too grateful to have others hear of it. The lady is Mrs. Eames, wife of the well-known costumer. She was not only restored, but is in perfect health to-day."

I thanked the doctor for his courteous reception, for the valuable information imparted, and I fell assured that his generous and humane nature will prevent him from feeling other than glad at seeing this interview published for the benefit of suffering humanity.

THE WAITER GIRL.

Oh, she isn't very pretty,
But she has a saucy nose,
And you bet your life she's gritty—
Rather more than you'd suppose.

She can face the meanest drummer
With the utmost of sang froid.
And make him think a bit his mamma
Should be caring for her boy.

She can silence any kicker
In a fraction of a trice,
And make him think she's slicker
Than a dollar cake of ice.

She can be as smooth as butter,
Or as hard as is the bread,
She will also be "too utter"
When a masher turns her head.

She speaks Chinese and Zulu
With fluency and ease,
And chews on taffy-tulu
In a way that's sure to please.

To England's tongue a stranger—
With some exceptions rare—
And that is why there's danger
In her oral bill of fare.

Though she's careless in her talking,
I will gladly overlook
Even solecisms shocking—
For she stands in with the cook.

"The center of civilization" is a great consumer of water. The death of Admiral Sir Provo William Parry Wallis, G. C. B., in the 101st year of his age, is of especial interest to Americans, because he was in 1813 second lieutenant on board the frigate Shannon when it captured the Chesapeake off Boston harbor. His two superior officers were killed in this engagement, and for his bravery and his skill in taking the prize into Halifax he was made a commander in the royal navy.

A library famous for its collection of "facetious" works was sold the other day at auction in London. Among the bidders were many men prominent in social and official circles. The composer Rossini was one of the laziest of mortals. After he had produced his crowning triumph, "Guillaume Tell," composed at the age of 37, he passed thirty-nine years in inactivity, himself at Bologna by fishing and pig farming. He had so great an antipathy to exertion, and was so enamored of "self-sufficing solitude," as Wordsworth calls it, that it is doubtful if he would go out of his way now, if he were alive, to hear the anthems of praise that are sung for him.

They buy them from the Siberian Chuckchees, who come over to an international fair that is held every summer on Kotzebue Sound, just above Bering strait on the Alaskan side. All the trading is done by barter, no sort of money being in circulation. At this fair also many wives are bought. One can purchase a very good article of a wife for $10. Wives among the Esquimaux people are usually bought. Sometimes the women are consulted.

Many Belgians mourn the death of Gen. Baron Chazal, ex-minister of war, which occurred at one of his castles in southern Europe. He was an interesting figure. The son of a Frenchman who was living in Belgium in banishment, he took part in the revolution of 1830, and soon became prominent. He atttained the rank of major general when he was only 34 years old, and in 1847 became secretary of war. While a second time head of the same ministery, in 1857, he succeeded in carrying the bill for the fortification of Antwerp through parliament. Gen. Chazal was commander-in-chief of the Belgian army during the Franco-Prussian war, and prevented armed troops from passing through Belgian territory. He was an advocate of compulsory military service in Belgium. Belgium papers say that he was the greatest minister of war that Belgium ever had. He was born in 1808.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Plenty of Fun With Natural Gas.

"Cleopatra" and "Spartacus" Friday and Saturday—A New Comedy Next Week.

A good sized and happy audience greeted Natural Gas at the Wheeler's last evening, and spent a few hours of rare fun. This comedy needs no description for Toledo people, and it is sufficient to say that Donnelly and Girard were as comical as ever and at every appearance received hearty encores. Some new songs have been introduced since the last engagement of the company here and several new faces were noticed in the chorus.

MacLean and Prescott.

The Cleveland Leader speaks as follows of MacLean and Prescott, who will be at Wheeler's Friday and Saturday: R. D. MacLean, Marie Prescott, and their company presented Dr. Bird's drama called "Spartacus" at the Lyceum last evening. It is the same play that has latterly been known as "The Galdiator." Forrest and McCullough have in recent years made the character of Spartacus famous and deterred less robust representatives from attempting its portrayal except in one or two instances where men of more physique than brains have undertaken it and failed. Although the part requires a large figure, the author has given the Thracian gladiator a noble mind, and intellectual force in the actor is quite essential. R. D. MacLean's impersonation was something of a surprise. His resemblance to his great predecessor, McCullough, in figure and general appearance was most striking, and his deportment and action all through the piece were also like his. But though the merit of the performance commanded the respect of those of good taste and judgment, and aroused high enthusiasm at times, the comparison between the two cannot justly be carried further. It can safely be said, however, that the impersonation stands next to that of McCullough. His physical and facial expression, and also his reading are so near the standard that only occasional crude movements appear. He is certainly on the right road, and a further improvement will impart to the impersonation the strength of repose which it chiefly lacks. Marie Prescott took the role of Julie acceptably for the most part, but at times her acting was marred greatly by artificiality and want of simple naturalness. W. S. Hart played Phasarius well but for overacting in the earlier scenes.

His Nibs the Baron.

The manager of His Nibs the Baron evidently is aware of the fact that the great competition in farce comedy this season will cause the worthiest to look to their laurels. It is safe to predict, however, that His Nibs will be found in the front ranks, judging from the many novelties and original ideas that are announced as a part of the entertainment.

The play, it is said, is interesting as a story, bits of sensation and character giving a light and shade that should prove interesting in comedy. A valet who takes advantage of his employer's absence and installs himself in his master's place, making love to his master's supposed sweetheart, but who is in reality a house maid impersonating that lady, forms the principal theme of the play.

Songs, dances, concerted evolutions, pantomimic divertisements, refined specialties and popular hits of the day are interpolated incidentally. His Nibs is booked for the People's next week.

FROM WAUSEON.

Governor Chase's Lecture—A Bad Man Out with a Gun.

Wauseon, March 17.—(Special)—Gov. Chase, of Indiana, gave a delightful and interesting lecture on Mexico to a crowded house last evening at the Disciple church.

Ned Cately, of Delta, was in town yesterday with a four-foot bludgeon under his arm and a six-shooter in each pocket. He declared that he was looking for Col. J. A. Wilkins, a prominent physician and democrat of Delta, who he thought was in town. He had his own way for an hour or so, and made the air blue with his oaths. He was finally subdued by Sheriff Connell and disarmed.

Upon being released he departed for Delta with the avowed intention of doing the doctor up.

PORTER WILL GO BACK.

Indianapolis, March 17.—Information has been received here that Minister A. G. Porter has been ordered to return to Italy, as diplomatic relations had been resumed with that country.

Mr. Porter was asked for a confirmation, but denied that any such orders had been received.

He believes, however, that diplomatic harmony is restored and is prepared to leave at once. He says that it is no doubt true that the orders have been sent, but have not reached him yet.

THE TOLEDO CADETS

Celebrated Their Thirteenth Anniversary.

The Choir Got in Some Great Work

With Its Ta Ra Boom Ta Ra and Maggie Murphy's Home—The Story of Last Night's Battle With Knives, Forks and Spoons.

It was a boom ta-ra occasion principally for the reason that this song was heard more often than any other. The annual banquet of the Toledo Cadets to the veteran, honorary and contributing members was held last evening at Memorial hall, and a most appropriate evening it was for the event, as at midnight the cadets entered upon the fourteenth year of their existence. It was a banquet, a musical and a birthday party all in one.

The early part of the evening was occupied with cards and music. In response to the requests of some of the vets, the boys went through the old West Point setting up exercises, now a portion of the new tactics. Lieut. Watters put them through the 17 movements, which are solely for the purpose of muscular development, in good style.

Finally the cadets and their guests formed for supper. The band, that is the singers, got together at one end of the table, captured the piano and whooped her up in great style. Bandmaster Will Stackhouse was not present on account of sickness, but another of the same kind, Lou Commlossy, was in his place and the band didn't lack for accompaniment.

Among the guests and honorary members present were Clarence Armstrong, Capt. P. H. Dowling, Rev. Dr. Bacon, R. W. Clark, Major O. J. Hopkins, Major E. O. Brown, J. D. Leland, R. B. Dakin, Ezra Kirk, Jos. C. Huber, Col. L. F. Lyttle, Louis Commlossy, Dr. John D. Howe and Dave Heyn.

The long tables presented a fine appearance, partly because there was something steaming hot and very palatable dotting them at regular intervals, and partly because the handsome floral decorations and the boutonnieres that graced each cover through the generosity of florist Heinl.

Captain McMaken welcomed everybody in his easy manner, and said the Cadets were proud to have the vets and others with them, and proud, too, of the interest they took in the company.

The first toast, Our City—the home of all we hold most dear, and in whose love we pray to be the jewels of the Roman mother, was responded to by Frank H. Tanner, who said:

Looking back over the history of Toledo for the past 22 years, we find that in the face of many disadvantages, great progress has been made.

We were in 1870 a city of 31,000 people. Our principal possession was a canal running through the heart of the city, which had seen its best days, and while it had done its share in calling attention to us as a city, had outlived its usefulness, and was abandoned in 1871. The place that knew it once, knows it no more, except as part of court house park, Spielbush avenue, the Wheeling & Lake Erie right of way, and the sites of No. 3 engine house, our public library and Memorial hall.

We were just then entering upon a period of "boom," so disastrous to any city when not accompanied by a healthy and steady growth, and the cry was "Toledo is the Future Great city of the west. It has so many unsurpassed natural advantages." Our reliance was placed wholly on these "unsurpassed natural advantages," and we were like the preacher who attempted a revival. He had a dream in which he found himself pulling an omnibus up a steep hill. The carriage would not be pulled. He called to his aid two or three leaders, who made an attempt to pull it; finally they began to examine the running gear, which proved to be in good order and well greased. There seemed to be nothing the matter with the carriage. The preacher suggested possibly there was something wrong inside, and on opening the door found his whole congregation inside waiting for them to pull them up the hill. The "unsurpassed natural advantages" left us in 1874 on the top wave of a real estate boom, which was to make everybody rich, and proved so disastrous to all holders of property bought at high prices, at high rates of interest. We had just begun building our splendid water works system, costing $1,000,000 and over, bonding ourselves for 20 years at 8 per cent., without the privilege of redeeming the bonds before maturity.

The hard times came on, and culminated in 1877 in riots throughout the country, and did not pass us by. The older cadets will remember the part they took in keeping down the mob, as they marched from factory to factory, and finally took possession of the railroad yards, where they were met by the military and finally persuaded to withdraw, when confronted with muskets and cannon, (and sandwiches).

In spite of all difficulties, we had a population of 31,000 in 1880, but our most rapid progress has been made within the past five years. In 1890 we were 82,000 strong, and the evidences of our rapid and substantial growth can be seen on every hand.

So rapid has been our growth that our schools are constantly overflowing, and those erected one or two years ago, have been found inadequate to supply the demand for room. In North Toledo, where five years ago three school rooms were sufficient to accommodate all the school children in that part of the city, there are now eleven rooms, all full, and by next fall more will be needed.

The same is the case in other parts of the city. Our schools have the reputation of being among the best in the country, and we can boast of a Manual Training school department, which is inquired after from all parts of the United States, and taken as model for the organization of others.

We have the best street railway system in the country, and it is so acknowledged by visitors to our city from other places. We are far in advance of other older and larger cities in the use of electricity as a means of locomotion. Chicago, the "Windy City, and called the most enterprising city on the continent, is just now wrestling with the problem of rapid transit, while we have had it for two years, and, thanks to competition and the enterprise of our two street railway companies, we can now travel from one end of the city to the other and all around it for the small sum of five cents, and in half the time formerly consumed by horse and mule power.

Toledo is a good place for manufacturers. All seem to be prosperous and are "getting there," when trade is to be secured. It is the best place in the west for the distribution of its products, and thus manufacturers are drawn here seeking a place of easy access to their customers. The large new flour mill, the malleable iron works and Craig's shipyard, our latest acquisitions, were all located here on account of our good railroad and water facilities. A large mill in the northwest selected Toledo as a distributing point for their flour, after thoroughly investigating other cities like Cleveland and Detroit, which were found wanting.

Toledo is a good place for homes. He who doubts this has but to board any line of street cars or to take a carriage for a ride around the city, to be convinced. On every hand is the evidence of the prosperity of our people, and their faith in Toledo as a home. Where a few years ago were forests and commons, without communication with the heart of the city, he will now find beautiful homes, finely paved streets, and electric cars to carry him to any part of the city in a short space of time. More people own their own homes in Toledo than in any other city of its size in the country. Our building and loan associations have done much toward this, and by their aid many are enabled to build homes without serious inconvenience or hazard.

With all the advantages, both natural and those acquired after many years of toil and disappointment at a less rapid growth than we had hoped for, there is one thing to be done by all of us, and that is, talk Toledo. Wherever we go, we find that people of other cities invariably praise their home, while it has been almost the rule here to cry down everything Toledo does, and instead of pitching in with a will when opportunity presents itself and praising Toledo, the unprogressive citizen howls it down, and the howl can be heard all over the land to our discredit.

Let us hope the time will soon come when Toledo citizens will talk Toledo and work for Toledo until she shall become known as a progressive, wide-awake city, whose people are proud of her and take delight in singing her praises wherever they are, and whenever they see the opportunity.

The band sang something appropriate between each toast, and right here "How dear to our hearts are the scenes of our childhood" was entered into with a vim.

Our Contributing Members, whose saw bucks enable us to meet our pressing creditors, and rout and vanquish them, was the toast to which Clarence Armstrong responded in an able manner. He said that the support that had been given the Cadets had not come wholly from ten dollar bills, but from the hearts of those around every hearthstone in Toledo. The reputation of the Cadets was not born to them, not thrust upon them, but was earned by the hardest toil. Such an organization it is a pleasure and an honor to assist.

Stephen W. Bolles responded to the toast—The Press; the power which has so moulded public opinion that to-day the National Guardsman receives credit for his work and encouragement from the citizens of his state. He expressed the sentiments of every newspaper man in the city when he said that the press was with the Cadets, ready to bestow praise in case lots, or to give them a friendly boost when needed. Then the band sang Boom Ta Ra.

A very active member and a very popular one too, Lieut. Thos. T. Watters, responded to the toast—The Active Member—who looks at the white stripe at the cuff of his blouse with more pride than at the Chevron above the elbow. He said he had been practicing for the past twenty-four hours, and he didn't wish any expressions of surprise if he bloomed out or rather out bloomed that famous after dinner speaker Chauncey Depew. He made a very happy speech, and Chauncy wasn't in it.

The toast, Our Dead—Dick, Pics and Serg, "fond recollections recall them to view," was responded to, all standing, while bugler Souder sounded taps.

Maj. O. J. Hopkins responded to Our Honorary Life Members. They are our God fathers and our Monitors and may we be given their counsels for many years to come.

Capt. P. H. Dowling was down for Armory Board. A guardsman does not forget such friends and they will always find our doors swinging inward at their approach, and a hearty welcome at the hands of those for whom they have done so much. He said that every member of the board desired to give the military of Toledo a worthy home. The armory building speaks for itself. It is large and will be complete with all modern improvements. When it is turned over to you, as it will be in a few weeks, I am sure that it will meet with your entire approval.

In the absence of the speaker to whom the toast, The Ohio National Guard, was assigned, Capt. McMaken spoke briefly.

Lieut Wm. R. Worts responded in a happy manner to the Toledo Cadet Veteran Corps. This ended the regular toasts Rev. Dr. Bacon, the beloved chaplain of the company, who came early and staid late—he said his wife was in New Orleans—made a fatherly address, and Geo. B. Smith, known to the boys as Col. Pluck, an old, tried and true friend of the company, made one of the best speeches of the evening.

Others were called on and responded. It was 2 o'clock nearly when the festivities came to an end, and everybody voted it an all around success, and the band played boom ta ra once more for luck.

Different Varieties of Ohio Oats—The Yields Compared.

Fifty differently named sorts of oats were sown in a comparative test at the Ohio experiment station in 1891, on a piece of bottom land which had been in corn the previous season.

The varieties were divided into four groups. (1), those of the Welcome type, having a coarse, weak straw, with plump, heavy white grain; (2), varieties with open panicle and white grain, but the grain more pointed and lighter in weight that the Welcome; (3), varieties having open panicle, but with black or mixed grain, and (4), varieties in which the panicle is more or less one-sided, commonly called "side oats."

In each of these groups a typical variety was adopted as a standard and was sown on every third plot throughout the group, so that every variety had a plot of the typical sort of growing alongside. This was done in order to overcome as far as possible the errors arising from inequalities in soil.

Welcome was chosen as the standard for the first group, Wide Awake for the second and Seizure for the fourth. The four mixed sorts sown in the third group were compared with Welcome.

The average yield of eight plots of Welcome was 47 1-2 bushels per acre and the greatest variation between neighboring plots was two bushels, which may be safely assumed as representing the factor of error due to inequalities of the soil. Colonel, Clydsdale, Centennial, White Belgian and White Victoria yielded practically the same as Welcome. Improved American yielded seven bushels more and Barley oats three bushels more than Welcome, while American Banner, Badger Queen, Largeff's White, Henderson's Clydesdale, Race Horse, White Bonanza and White Wonder fell from two to seven bushels below Welcome in yield.

Ten plots of Wideawake averaged at the rate of nearly 49 bushels per acre. Banner, Early Prize Cluster, Currie's Prize Cluster, Kansas Hybrid and White Canadian gave about the same yield as Wideawake. California White, Scottish Chief, Pronstcier, State of North Dakota and Earl, Dakota yielded three to four bushels more than Wideawake, and Pringle's Progress, White Schoenen, White Bedford, Yankee Prolific, Potato Oats, White Russian, Welch and Hopetown giving the lowest yields.

Five plots of Seizure averaged 56 bushels. Golden Giant and Giant Yellow French, which are apparently the same variety under different names, and Egyptian yielded about the same as Seizure. Black Tartarian, Prince Edward's Island, Dakota Gray, Black Prolific and Japan yielded two to five bushels more than Seizure, and Wilson's Prolific and Alabama fell three to eight bushels below Seizure.

Of the sorts mixed with open panicle, Monarch and Rust Proof yielded four to eleven bushels more than Welcome, and Black Russian and New Red Rust Proof two to nine bushels less. Rust Proof was the only one of these varieties that equaled Seizure in yield.

It will be seen that the side oats outyielded the other kinds on the average. The varieties of the Welcome type produced the heaviest grain, averaging about 33 pounds per bushel against 30 pounds on the average for the other kinds; but all yields were calculated in bushels of 32 pounds.

The side oats had, as a rule, a much stiffer straw than oats of other types, a point greatly in their favor.

The Cost of Feed.

There is little accuracy, or approximation to accuracy, in the usual estimation of the cost of pasture. In fact a good many people practically think that pasturage costs nothing. This sort of recklessness in considering the cost of summer feeding when pasture alone furnishes the food is a part of the extravagance of our present system of agriculture, which is the direct result of having plenty of land. When the time comes in the history of the United States that our farms will be small, and every acre will be compelled to yield its utmost—and that time is coming—we shall know better what pasturing costs. But even now the careful dairyman and farmer realizes that pasture costs something worth while to consider. It requires about three acres on a small farm to pasture a cow, while by the ensilage system a cow can be kept on less than an acre.

The progressive dairyman is convinced not only by the force of reason but by actual experience that a man cannot afford to use three acres in feeding a cow when one acre and even less will do it, and while he made next to nothing in his dairy—according to his figures—while he simply pastured in summer and fed dry in winter, he makes a handsome profit, is able to keep a larger number of cows and is better satisfied in every way since he has made one acre keep a cow, fed more generously winter and summer and made a study of his business.

The loss to the soil in pasture is not considered once in a hundred times. It is true that with dairy the soil improves, but it is chiefly from the fact that the land is resting that the improvement comes. Every quart of milk and pound of butter and cheese take substance from the soil. How much do they take? While we may not be able to determine that, the fact that something is taken is sufficient to remind us that it costs something even to pasture cattle on our farms.—Western Rural.

The reed swamps of the Guadiana river, in southern Spain, are all alive with migratory birds in November, and the water fowl of northern Russia winter on the shores of the Caspian, where snowstorms may occur now and then, but where water birds are, on the whole, much better off than on the desert coasts further south.

East Boston is to have another mammoth grain elevator, designed to hold a million bushels of wheat.

BABY FOUND.

Startling Discovery Made at the Pennsylvania Depot.

The Dead Body of An Infant Girl Left There During the Night.

At the Pennsylvania depot this morning the ladies' water closet overflowed, and the water running upon the floor attracted the attention of the janitress, who, upon investigation, made the startling discovery that the closet pipes were stopped up by the body of a newly-born girl baby.

The infant was fully developed and had evidently been born but a short time. Whether it was alive or not when born is a question that has not yet been settled.

The coroner was called and, taking charge of the body, at once set on foot an investigation.

It is thought whoever left the body came in on one of the night trains and it is also supposed that they are still in the city, yet there is but small clue to work upon, as nothing suspicious was noticed about the station during the night.

GENERAL NELSON

Pays Toledo Friends a Short Visit.

He Talks of the Presidential Situation in Indiana—Harrison, Cleveland, Hill and Gray As Quantities in the Race.

The Boody house to-day had a distinguished guest in the person of General Nelson, of Terre Haute, Ind.

Mr. Nelson was minister to Chile under the administration of President Lincoln and to Mexico under President Grant, and, as at present and always has been prominently connected with the republican party of Indiana. He was in the city to-day on business in connection with the proposed electric railway between Toledo and Maumee.

Speaking of presidential proclivities of the Hoosier state Gen. Nelson said: "The republican party of Indiana was never more united, hopeful and enthusiastic than at the present time. As to a republican candidate for president, it stands as a unit for the renomination of President Harrison. The opposition amounts to practically little or nothing, and is confined almost exclusively to disappointed office seekers.

As to the popular choice for a leader of the democratic party, there is of course a division of sentiment between Cleveland and Hill, but I am certain a great majority of the democratic party of Indiana prefer Cleveland to Hill. There is one thing that the democracy is united on, and that is its loyalty to Gov. Gray, and if the question were put to a vote in Indiana to-day he would be the popular choice."

Spraying to Save the Plums.

Much has been said for and against the use of the arsenites for the plum curculio. Many have had excellent success for several years and then utterly failed, although they sprayed as in previous years. From our own experiments the past season, and the experiments of others, it is certain that curculio are killed and that the liability to sting fruit is lessened by spraying.

After picking off the stung fruit in an orchard of small trees last season, part of them were sprayed and the remainder were left unsprayed. We then covered these trees with cheese cloth and fastened it below as tightly as possible, introduced a number of curculio into each inclosure and left them there about a week, when we noticed the results. We found that the entire per cent. of unsprayed plums and cherries that were stung was a little over 75; or, in other words, more than three-fourths of all the unsprayed fruit was stung. Of the trees that were sprayed there was only half as many stung plums, or 37 1-2 per cent. No dead beetles were found under the sacking of the unsprayed trees, while where the trees were sprayed 28 per cent. of all the curculio found were dead.

Although these per cents are comparatively small to what they should be for an ideal remedy, we might think more favorably of this remedy was it not for another feature. We found by confining curculio in glass jars under as near normal conditions as possible that it took from two to three days for them to die after being poisoned. This is another drawback as a female lays from five to ten eggs a day and may do considerable harm before succumbing to the poison.

From a general review of our own experiments and of others who have investigated the subject, it seems safe to conclude that if a large crop of plums set and the curculio are not extraordinarily numerous, a good yield can be saved by spraying. On the other hand if only a moderate crop set and the curculio are very plentiful, the fruit grower will probably be disappointed if he expects a very large share.

There are seasons when spraying seems a great success. We had an orchard of 200 trees that appeared that way last year, but fortunately we had two rows on one side that we jarred and only got two curculio from them in three weeks. The fruit was not preserved by spraying, but because there was no curculio to injure it. This does not often happen though, as there are usually enough curculio to take the fruit if given a chance. Spraying is the easiest method of combatting them except it be the utilizing of chickens and hogs, and the choice seems to be between running some risk by spraying or resorting to the laborious mechanical means used by many. Perhaps spraying, with recourse to jarring in case spraying failed might be more desirable than either. This could be easily done by an orchardist who watched his plums closely early in the season.

If spraying is adopted, the trees should be sprayed three or four times about ten days apart. The first spraying should be made as soon as the blossoms fall, but never before.—G. C. Davis, in Farm, Field and Stockman.

Gilbert, the London playwright, discovered that "a policeman's lot is not a happy one." Some years later Miss Catherine Gurney, also of London, was so impressed with this idea that she set on foot a movement for sustaining these useful public officers under their peculiar trials and temptations by providing for their mental and spiritual improvement. She now reports, as a result of this work, that there are 5,000 praying policemen in the United Kingdom.

It seems strange that legislation should be found necessary to secure complete freedom of worship in any commonwealth of this country, and still more strange, when the necessity was admitted, that a legislative body should find any difficulty in passing a proper bill to meet it. Yet a bill for this purpose has just been passed in the New York state senate after persistent disagreement as to its provisions. It applies to institutions which receive money from the state.
